

AWARDS AND RECOGNITION

- ◆ Higher Achievement is the 2005 winner of the prestigious Washington Post Excellence in Non-Profit Management Award.
- ◆ Johns Hopkins University selected Higher Achievement as the 2006 winner of its Excellence in Summer Learning Award.
- ◆ CharityWorks chose Higher Achievement as its 2006 partner.
- ◆ Bank of America selected Higher Achievement for the national Neighborhood Builders Award.
- ◆ Accenture and NPower selected Higher Achievement as the winner of the 2005 Innovation in Technology Award.
- ◆ The Center for Nonprofit Advancement awarded Higher Achievement's Executive Director, Maureen Holla, and Excel Leadership Award.
- ◆ The White House recently recognized Higher Achievement for its academic results with a visit to one of our Centers where President Bush presented Higher Achievement as the country's best example of academic achievement and as his platform for the country's Investing in America's Youth Initiative.
- ◆ The Community Foundation for the National Capital Region chose Higher Achievement's Board Chair, Carlos Garcia, to win the 2003 Linowes Leadership Award for his work with Higher Achievement.
- ◆ The World Trade Organization recognized Higher Achievement as an exemplary program in the United States traversing the digital divide.
- ◆ The DC Board of Trade recognized Higher Achievement for its innovative use of technology in organizational management.

Media Exposure

- ◆ The Washington Post featured Higher Achievement's rigor and results in two articles on December 1, 2005.
- ◆ The December 2003 edition of Washingtonian Magazine featured Higher Achievement as one of DC's top 20 charities.